An Emphasis on Security
All Anlin Malibu doors were designed with security in mind and passed the forced entry resistance tests.

Both door styles, sliding and swinging, have metal reinforced door panels with locking mechanisms securely fastened through the vinyl into metal reinforcement within the panel.

A Select Dealer Network
To ensure your satisfaction, Anlin Malibu doors are only sold and installed by a limited number of authorized dealers who have been trained and certified by Anlin.
Anlin Malibu sliding patio doors are more than beautiful. They’re also built to last and operate smoothly for a lifetime. And that’s important, because sliding patio doors tend to get a lot of use.

Anlin’s proprietary QuadraGlide rollers are made with sealed, precision bearings. The stainless steel option is shown below.

Door rollers glide over a durable, one-piece stainless steel track for effortless operation for a lifetime.

Optional 3/8" stainless steel dead bolt provides added security on Malibu sliding patio doors.

Anlin’s Aluma-Force™ screen door frame is streamlined and made to last, with thick walls of high-test aluminum and metal reinforced corners. Screen doors are built with flush-mounted handles and heavy-duty, self-latching hardware.

Anlin Malibu doors are built with the same state-of-the-art, energy saving technology options as Anlin’s luxury and premium series windows. They include Anlin’s Next Generation high performance glazing system.

For extreme heat or sun exposure, such as the Arizona desert or any elevation exposed to the scorching sun, SunShield Extreme (solar reflective tinted blue/gray coating) offers the best protection.

As an example, the table at right shows key energy ratings of the National Fenestration Rating Council for a Malibu sliding patio door with a standard sash. (For both U-Factor and Solar Heat Gain Coefficient, the smaller the number, the more energy efficient the door.)
